Item 8.01 - Other Events

Settlement of Third-Party Claims Related to the San Bruno Accident

On September 6 and September 9, 2013, Pacific Gas and Electric Company, a subsidiary of PG&E Corporation (“Utility”), agreed to settle the claims of substantially all of the remaining plaintiffs who sought compensation for personal injury and property damage, and other relief, including punitive damages, following the rupture of one of the Utility’s natural gas transmission pipelines in San Bruno, California on September 9, 2010. As previously disclosed, approximately 160 lawsuits on behalf of approximately 500 plaintiffs had been filed against the Utility.

At June 30, 2013, the Utility had recorded cumulative charges of $455 million for third-party claims for personal injury, property damage, and damage to infrastructure related to the San Bruno accident. Of this amount, the Utility had made cumulative payments of $388 million for settlements through June 30, 2013. Also, at June 30, 2013, the Utility estimated that it was reasonably possible it would incur as much as an additional $145 million for unresolved claims, for a total possible loss of $600 million. During the quarter ended September 30, 2013, the Utility expects to record a charge of approximately $110 million in addition to the cumulative charges of $455 million to reflect the settlements reached on September 6 and September 9, 2013 and the Utility’s estimated liability for remaining third-party claims for personal injury, property damage, and damage to infrastructure, including claims by government entities.
